Let's Start!

Let's relax at a spa!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- What kind of treatments happen at a spa?
- Is this something that interests you? Why or why not?
- If you won a gift certificate for a day at a spa. Would you go? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can give extended warnings, recommendations, or advice.
- I can make offers and requests.
- I can give and respond to suggestions.

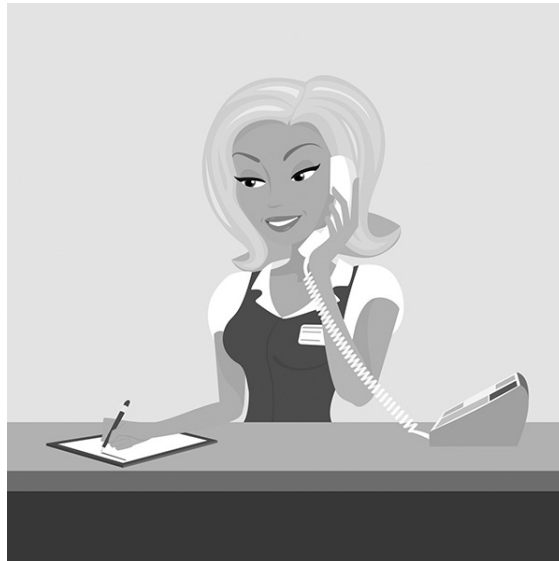

Let's Explore!

Sally wants a full spa day!

* During a "full spa day" you get a number of treatments.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Spa Receptionist:

How can I help you?

Sally:

Can I book a spa day?

Spa Receptionist:

If you want a full day, you can book for tomorrow.

Sally:

Please tell me what you offer.

Spa Receptionist:

If you want to relax, choose Day of Rest. If you want to look your best, go for the Skin Special. Of course, I can offer you both.

Sally:

Could I get a manicure?

Spa Receptionist:

Certainly. I suggest the hot wax treatment as well.

Sally:

My feet need help too.

Spa Receptionist:

How about a pedicure?

Sally:

That sounds good.

Spa Receptionist:

Can I book you the complete package?

Sally:

Yes.

Spa Receptionist:

Let's set it up now. When you book a full day, you get lunch.

Sally:

That would be nice. I look forward to it!

Let's Practice!

Let's go to the spa with Sally!

Instructions: Read the dialogue again and select the correct answer.

1. If Sally wants a full day at the spa, ...
 - a. she book tomorrow.
 - b. she can book for tomorrow.
 - c. she could read a book.
2. Choose Day of Rest, ...
 - a. if you relax.
 - b. if you can't relax.
 - c. if you want to relax.
3. When you book a full day, ...
 - a. it's lunch.
 - b. you get lunch.
 - c. you buy lunch.

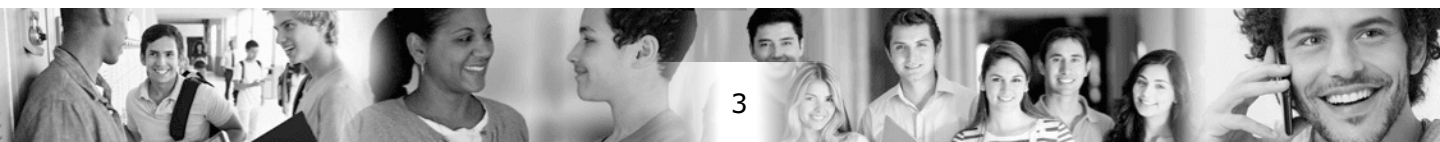

Let's Practice!

The receptionist makes offers. Sally makes requests.

Instructions: Write the words in the correct category.

1. Please tell me what you offer.
2. Could I get a manicure?
3. Can I book you the complete package?
- a. How can I help you?
- b. Can I book a spa day?
- c. Of course, I can offer you both.

Offers	Requests

Target Words

- to look your best (expression): to look as good as you can e.g. It's her first date with Tom and she wants to look her best.
- complete (adjective): whole; entire e.g. I want to book the complete package.
- wax (noun): a material used to make candles or in spa treatments
e.g. She always has a hot wax treatment on her hands at the spa.
- pedicure (noun): a treatment for the feet and toenails
e.g. They get pedicures in the hot season when they wear sandals.
- manicure (noun): a treatment for the hands and fingernails
e.g. She get a manicure every week so her hands look nice.
- skin (noun): the layer that covers our bodies

Learning Points

Offers, Suggestions and Requests

When you make an offer, you offer to do something.

Example: Can I carry that for you?

When you make a suggestion, you give ideas or ways to do something.

Example: We could go to the supermarket first.

When you make a request, you ask someone for help or to do something.

Example: Could you help me?

Ask	Ask	Respond
Offer	Can I book you the complete package?	Yes, I'd like that.
Suggest	How about a pedicure?	That sounds good.
Request	Could I get a manicure?	Certainly.

The Zero Conditional

You use the zero conditional when the result is always the same.

It's a generalization or a fact.

The 'if' in this conditional can usually be replaced by 'when' without changing the meaning.

Examples:

- If you want to relax, choose Day of Rest.
- When you book a full day, you get lunch.
