Let's Start!

Let's see an opera!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about travel and vacations in social situations.

Ask your partner:

- How often do you see a concert, play or band?
- How large is the theater or venue?
- Do you find it exciting? Why or why not?

Can Do Statements

- I can describe a festival or a celebration.
- I can ask and talk about what people do and what people are doing.
- I can give extended warnings, recommendations, or advice.

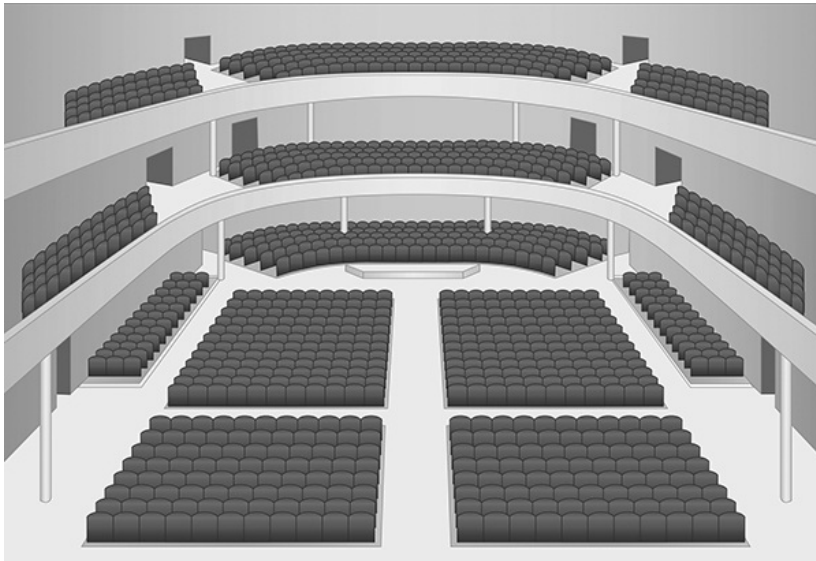

Let's Explore!

Tonight marks the opening of the Festival!

* To "mark" means to represent.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Ladies and Gentlemen, welcome to the Festspielhaus concert hall. When you come to Salzburg, you expect to hear classical music. If you love opera, you are in for a treat. Tonight's performance marks the official opening of this year's Festival. The conductor is getting ready to begin. Kindly take your seats. If you look at your program, you can see there is a change. Our regular soloist is unable to perform. Highly praised soprano, Greta Bergsdorf, is singing in her place. We are excited to have her here. We are all looking forward to tonight's production. Please turn off your phones now if you want a perfect opera evening. We hope you enjoy the event.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

The Zero Conditional

You use the zero conditional to talk about general truths.

There are two parts to the sentence.

One part is the condition. The other part is the result.

Form:

If or When + the Simple Present, the Simple Present tense

Condition	Result
If you buy your ticket early,	you get a good seat.
When I hear the soprano sing,	I always cry.
When you come to Salzburg,	you expect to hear classical music.
If you love opera,	you are in for a treat.

The Present Continuous Tense vs. The Simple Present Tense

You use the Simple Present tense to talk about:

- things in general
- things that happen regularly
- things that do not change

You use the Present Continuous tense to talk about:

- something that is happening now
- something that is happening around now

Simple Present	Present Continuous
Tonight marks the opening of the Festival! Kindly take your seats. In Salzburg you expect to hear classical music.	I'm reading a good book. We are looking forward to the event. A soprano is singing tonight.
